

Do your SMSF documents stand up to scrutiny?

More and more SMSF disputes are arising because of gaps in or inadequate SMSF documents, in particular trust deeds, variations, changes of trustee, binding death benefit nominations and pension documents.

This is reflected in cases such as Perry v Nicholson and Re Narumon, where parties were forced to court to confirm the validity of SMSF documents. In both cases, the court action would not have been necessary with better documentation.

For a fixed fee of $1,650 incl. GST, Cooper Grace Ward will review and provide a written report identifying shortcomings with your SMSF documents and how to fix them:

- trust deeds, deed variations and changes of trustee
- binding death benefit nominations
- pension documents.

Will your SMSF document survive the test?
