

Insurance

Cooper Grace Ward's insurance practice has provided legal advice to the Australian insurance industry for 40 years.

We understand the importance of identifying and managing business and operational risks, ensuring you have the appropriate knowledge and procedures in place to limit your liability and run your business effectively.

Our specialist insurance team has expert knowledge of statutes, common law and industry concepts, including reserving, co-insurance and re-insurance, and fraud detection.

Our key services

Our major services and recent experience in this area include:

- workers' compensation, continuing a long association with WorkCover Queensland and a number of major self-insured companies
- compulsory third party (CTP), including successes at trial for one of Queensland's largest insurers
- general insurance, including acting for insurers in Royal Commissions and Commissions of Inquiry
- corporate insurance, including advising on the resolution of large and difficult claims from the London, Asian and Australian insurance markets
- recovery, including in large litigated matters
- heavy motor vehicle, acting for some of Australia's leading truck insurers
- public liability, including for a major self-insured global family restaurant chain, two major global commercial insurers, two household insurers, a number of heavy vehicle motor insurers and a London syndicate.

A snapshot of our experience

Our insurance team also represents and advises clients on other areas of insurance, including:

- death, trauma and total and permanent disability

- income protection
- group life and group salary continuance
- arson and fraud claims
- environmental liability.
